The administration of President Grant has been so successful in its foreign and domestic policy, and so satisfactory to the people, says the Portland (Maine) Press, "that the Democracy unable to make an issue on a single question of public policy, are preparing to abandon their organization and its principles, and go into a guerrilla war, under the leadership of disaffected Republicans. The Renomination.

The Republicans who are opposed to the renomination of the President insist that as a certain indefinite number of the party would prefer another candidate, those who prefer the President should give way. Then can, however, be little doubt, if we may judge by the ordinary methods of ascertaining the opinion of the party, that the great mass of Republicans desire the renomination; and it is not clear why they should renounce their preference because a few would select another candidate. the remeting in a basement vestry, a few days ago, was so affected by the atmosphere of the place, spiritual or otherwise, that she fell into a soothing slumber. When she awoke she found here self a prisoner in the dark vestry, and could not, by the utmost efforts of here hands and lungs, get released. About noon next day she succeeded in climbing out of a window and summoned aid to help her over the high fence of the churchyard.

A woman does what she chooses without being abused for it. She can stay at home in time of war and get married again if her husband gets killed. She can stay at home in time of war and get married again if her husband gets killed. She can wear corsets if too thick, and other "fixins" if too thin. She can get her husband in debt all over, until he warns the public not to trust her on his account. But all these accounts are balanced by the great facts that she cannot now purchaselerally good ones short of 60c. a bushel.

The Ohio State Journal says, "When you find a man howling about Grant and complaining that he shows a lack of appreciation of public men, it is safe in quite what office that man wanted which he did not get.
